Build:Inn, the construction cluster in the Basque Country, has promoted the preparation of the White Paper on the Decarbonisation of the Construction Sector in Gipuzkoa, thanks to funding from the Provincial Council of Gipuzkoa.

This White Paper sets out specific measures to decarbonise the different links in the construction value chain. It is therefore a key technical document for modernising and increasing the competitiveness of this sector, which is also one of the main emitters of greenhouse gases.

Aware of the responsibility that this entails in terms of climate change, there are already agents who are incorporating decarbonisation as a key element of their business model. The book, in which NAIDER has actively collaborated with Build:Inn, brings together contributions from around thirty of these agents.
