

5 MINUTES IS ENOUGH

Posted on 27/08/2015 by Naider

Electric cars are getting closer every day, a Israeli startup is building a battery model capable of charging an electric car in five minutes and giving it a range of 170 miles. There are many companies that have seen how the future passes through an industry that is respectful of the environment and that is why the electric car business, led by the Tesla company, is on the rise.

At naider we are glad that companies are focusing on new business models that are sustainable and at the same time economically viable.

There are no comments yet.