The Internet of Things and the rise of mobile devices have become the center of ideas for many entrepreneurs due to the opportunities that new technologies generate in the market. Unfortunately, those who want to take advantage of the "cracks" of this new world under construction, and that is that because of "cybercrimes" Spanish companies added losses of up to 14,000 million euros, according to the report "The state of cybersecurity in 2015".

According to the report, the labor market is not capable of supplying the demand of the labor market with professionals on its own, since it is estimated that there is a deficit of more than one million professionals in the area.

The study also details the need to create internal departments in companies with the function of monitoring measures aimed at stopping and preventing these attacks.

All this has led to the creation of more than 1,000 startups related to cybersecurity with a total investment of close to 7.3 billion dollars.
