

BUENOS AIRES... NEVER BETTER SAID

Posted on 16/08/2015 by Naider

The Argentine city of Buenos Aires has launched a plan called "Buenos Aires Verdes" whose objective is the implementation of the Urban Environmental Plan. Through it, it is promised that the city will respect the environment as a cultural asset.

In this way, public transport will be facilitated and promoted and the city itself will adapt to fight against climate change, as we can find out through hurban platform.

The most important actions to be carried out will be:

1. Local green spaces
2. Large urban parks
3. Integrated squares (with drainage systems to collect water)

There are no comments yet.