

GET PAID TO RIDE A BIKE

Posted on 04/09/2015 by Naider

Going to work by bike has its advantages, and even more so how much they pay you for it. They have read well. The Chilean company Altiuz has decided to promote sustainable transport among its employees and that is why it pays 150 pesos, around 0.20 euros, for every kilometer that its employees travel on their way to work and back home. It is not that anyone is going to get out of poverty with this measure, but without a doubt it is an example that many other companies can take in the fight for ecological awareness.

Even so, not only transportation by bicycle is prioritized, since those who wish to walk may also be beneficiaries of this measure. The original idea arose in some French companies and apart from the fight for ecological awareness in society, it tries to promote a healthy lifestyle among employees.

There are no comments yet.