

GUADALMEDINA IS TRANSFORMED

Posted on 22/07/2015 by Naider

The Málaga city council together with the Ciedes foundation have launched a project to remodel the Guadalmedina river , a river that centuries ago was once navigable and that was an important means of communication between different towns, one of them being Malaga, which saw its historic center being created on its banks.

The current situation of the flow is far from being appropriate for its category and its arrangement must take into account different aspects such as its tendency to overflow due to the heavy rains that occasionally hit those regions.

One of the main objectives of this project is the integration of the flow in the city for its citizen use and for this a program called "An ideas competition for a strategic project" in which naider has collaborated hand in hand with the architect David esteal Herrero.

There are no comments yet.