

HUMAN CITIES

Posted on 24/08/2015 by Naider

Humanity. That is what the most modern cities look for. Little by little we are realizing that cities are more than just a set of buildings, cities that are economically and environmentally sustainable, safe and civic, in short, human. The considered best cities have patterns in common and thanks to the Ice video we can find out what they are.

As expected, transportation becomes vitally important when it comes to assessing the health of a city, and it is that cities oriented towards the use of bicycles end up being not only less polluted but also more functional. The education of children, both at home and at school, also plays a predominant role, as well as the ecological awareness of the population.

There are no comments yet.