

MEANS OF PAYMENT ARE VIRTUALIZED

Posted on 16/08/2015 by Naider

Can you imagine leaving home with only your mobile? What seemed like a crazy idea a few years ago is not so much today, thanks to the so-called "internet of things" effect, actions as simple as paying for a product seem to evolve. The reason; the mobile phone, the "virtual wallets" are taking over traditional bills and cards and sooner than later, we will end up paying via mobile. Time to time.

Even so, not only "virtual wallets" are advancing, we must also pay attention to another phenomenon called bitcoin or "virtual currency", in addition to the logical convenience that these new payment models bring with them, there is a compelling reason that supports them; fraud against the underground economy.

And it is that, without a doubt, the future is virtual.

There are no comments yet.