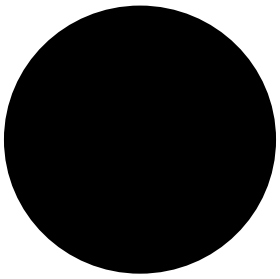
SPIN-OFFS: A CONSOLIDATION OPTION IN THE MARKET

Posted on 31/07/2014 by Naider



Trescal Iberica Calibración is a company born from the collaboration between Tecnalia and Trescal. This new company will be a spin-off of both companies, since it will incorporate the technical and human team that up to now has carried out the testing and calibration activities at the Tecnalia Technology Corporation, and will join the technological expertise it has in this area. Trescal. The new company will have a staff of 27 people, 19 of them engineers, distributed in two laboratories located in Bilbao and Vitoria, and is expected to have a turnover of 1.8 million euros.

This spin-off will focus on large-scale projects with specialized technical expertise in the field of calibration< /a>, metrology and measurement engineering, A great commitment by Tecnalia, and one more step in the construction of a large technology corporation with high added value.

There are no comments yet.