

THE INTERNET OF THINGS, WELCOME

Posted on 04/08/2015 by Naider

The Internet of Things is already here and it is here to stay. This new concept, technology or whatever you want to call it, ranges from the home alarm to the refrigerator. Basically, it is about everything in the world being connected to the Internet and that is that, today, it is already possible to control even the smallest detail with a single "click" on the screen of our mobile phone.

We have put aside the times when the mobile phone only allowed us to make calls, what's more, it seems that even the mobile phone service is in the process of becoming obsolete.

Are you going to stay behind?

There are no comments yet.