

COP21 VIDEO: WHAT IS COP21 IN TWO MINUTES

Posted on 11/11/2015 by Naider

This December some 190 nations will gather in Paris to discuss a new global agreement on climate change. Naider will be present there and from there we will report first-hand the activities and milestones that are taking place.

The talks are commonly referred to as COP21, which stands for the 21st Annual Conferences of the Parties. We rescued this video from Green.TV to learn in just two minutes the importance of the conversations and parallel workshops that will bring together tens of thousands of people in the city of light. Everyone who is something in Climate Change will be there. Naider is not going to miss the moment either and will be present with a prominent delegation in Paris and a specific monitoring of what is happening there.

There are no comments yet.