Posted on 23/11/2015 by Naider

This video shows us in a simple, simple and very entertaining way the concept of resilience or our ability to adapt to our environment and change with it.

Resilience appears as a beacon for our cities, companies and society in general, since the challenges presented by climate change and the constant evolution of an increasingly digitized society force us to face each day in a different way. different from the obstacles we find on the wayno.
