VIDEO: THE PROTECTED BIKE LANE

Posted on 13/11/2018 by Naider

The introduction of more protected bike lanes, in spaces that were previously dedicated to car parking, has made many people lose their fear of getting around New York on two wheels. The number of habitual cyclists has tripled in ten years, and the city has benefited in terms of economy, mobility and safety, thanks to investments that represent only 1% of the transport authority's budget.

There are no comments yet.