The last couple of days NAIDER participated in the second SCORE workshop in Vilanova i la Geltrú in Catalonia. During the sessions the local team was able to develop the basis of both sustainability and communication plans in order to continue the growth of their Coastal City Living Lab. It was also the opportunity, with the help of the local stakeholders, to prioritise the ecosystem-based approaches that were presented by our colleagues from ENT through co-creation and co-design activities.

We would like to thank the local team, composed by Vilanova i la Geltrú Municipality, Barcelona Provincial Council, and ENT for their hospitality and amazing work.

We now take a small break from the workshops as we prepare for the Consortium meeting
